PRESENTATION

The aim of the program is to provide participants with an in-depth understanding of the legal rules on migration and asylum adopted by the EU. It is of interest to all persons who wish to acquire such special knowledge, for instance EU or national civil servants, lawyers or judges, workers from international organisations and NGOs, researchers and PhD students who frequently confront the complex legal dimension of migration and asylum in their work. The program is organised by the Odysseus Academic Network for Legal Studies on Migration and Asylum in Europe, one of the leading research and training organisation in EU migration and asylum law founded in 1999 with the financial support of the European Commission.

The program offers the opportunity to live a unique EU bubble with professors coming from several Member States, as well as speakers from EU institutions. It offers an intellectually stimulating experience as part of a group of ten to fifteen participants specialising in migration and asylum with different backgrounds and coming from all over Europe.

On completing the Master's program, our graduates can value on the labour market the technical knowledge that they have acquired in migration and asylum law. They work for European institutions and agencies, international organisations and NGOs, migration law firms and national ministers for home affairs. The Executive Master has also enabled our graduates to reorient their careers towards migration and asylum.

Welcome on board!

WELCOME BY THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION

Brussels, 19 May 2006

The European Commission welcomes the creation of a “Certificate on European Law on Immigration and Asylum”

The European Commission welcomes the announcement of the creation of a “Certificate on European Law on Immigration and Asylum” by the Odysseus Academic Network. The Commission considers the creation of this one year programme of training as an interesting contribution of the academic community to the development of a common policy on immigration and asylum. There is indeed a growing need for specific training on those issues in the Member States and offering training opportunities is also a significant element of capacity building for third countries cooperating with the EU to improve immigration and asylum management.

Vice-President Franco Frattini, Commissioner responsible for Freedom, Security and Justice noted: “The course provides the opportunity to live in a unique European environment, with instructors coming from academic institutions in many different Member States as well as from the EU institutions, and to take part in an intellectually stimulating experience as part of a group of 30-40 participants specialising in the area of immigration and asylum with different backgrounds from all over Europe. I look forward to handing out the first certificate to the students in July 2007”

The programme which is the first of this kind, will offer its participant a deep understanding of the developing European Law on Immigration and Asylum from a theoretical as well as practical point of view. It is made of one introductory module followed by two specialised modules on immigration and asylum and a research paper.

The “Odysseus Network” is the Academic Network for Legal Studies on Immigration and Asylum in Europe” created in 1999 with the financial support of the European Commission. The courses will start in September 2006 in Brussels and are given in English. All information is available on the websit

TEACHING ORIENTATION AND METHODOLOGY

The program is of a legal nature and very demanding. Courses will be rather technical in orientation, but the introductory module allows non-jurists to follow it successfully by acquiring knowledge on the EU institutional framework, the interaction between human rights and migration & asylum law, the roots of EU law in international migration & asylum law, the freedom of movement of EU citizens by comparison with third-country nationals and the law of the external relations of the EU.

Participants will benefit from the companion Odysseus Research Handbook on EU migration and asylum law that provides a comprehensive overview of the basics for all subjects of the courses.

On top of the Executive Master, the fees cover access to the Odysseus Summer School, taking place every year in Brussels as well as online during the two first weeks of the month of July, to give participants the opportunity to acquire the necessary basic knowledge before starting the Executive Master. The classes offer theoretical but also practical elements concerning the case law of the Court of Justice of the EU and the European Court of Human Rights. Personal reading is expected from the participants.

The very latest developments of EU policy are integrated into the teaching in particular through the participation as lecturers of high-ranking officials from the European Commission and EU agencies. Participants will follow the day-to-day developments of the EU policy by receiving information from the Odysseus team. The classes will be conducted by academics among the best specialists of EU migration and asylum law. Three specific gatherings including professors and experts from EU institutions are organised in Brussels throughout the year to give participants the opportunity to meet and exchange in person. Specific issues will be discussed during these meetings to improve the understanding of participants and illustrate the courses.

Attendance at online classes is mandatory to ensure interactivity between participants and professors. The coordinator will monitor participants' presence and those who are frequently absent without any reason of force majeure will not be allowed to present the exams. Class recordings are provided to support the learning process, but they are not a substitute for attending the live sessions.

A short training will be provided on how to use the Teams platform. Participants only need to have a good internet connection and a computer with a camera. The participants will have access to an online platform providing an extensive and up to date documentation.

RESEARCH OPPORTUNITIES

For the final exam, participants have to write a blog post that must be analytical rather than descriptive. The subject to be selected in agreement with the coordination team, must deal with EU or comparative law with an EU dimension. The best posts will be published on the Odysseus blog, so that the selected participants will have a scientific publication to add on their CV. The fourth term corresponds to a research track during which participants draft their blog post with the support of a member from the Odysseus Network. Interested persons will obtain advice on how to build a subject for a PhD. We also offer the opportunity to do a traineeship in the Brussels coordination team of the Odysseus Network.

SCHEDULE AND LOCATION

The program starts on 6 September 2025 and ends on 10 July 2026. It is divided into 4 terms. Courses amount generally to a total of 12 to 18 hours spread over a two/three-week period with sessions of 3 hours. The schedule of courses (6 to 9pm on Fridays and 10am to 1pm on Saturdays) enables professionals to participate. Participants will attend the courses online via Teams. Only the three gatherings require physical presence in Brussels.

ASSESSMENT AND EXECUTIVE MASTER'S DEGREE

Three online written exam sessions will be organised: one for the introductory module, one for the specialised module on migration, and one for the specialised module on asylum. The exam session for the introductory module includes a separate exam for each course. The specialised modules on migration and asylum will each have one general written exam. On top, a final online oral exam will also be held during the first two weeks of July. This oral exam will include the presentation of the blog post and questions on the specialised modules on migration & asylum, and will be conducted before a jury composed of members of the Network.

Participants who have followed the program assiduously throughout the year and successfully passed the exams will receive an executive degree corresponding to level 7 of the European Qualifications Framework (EQF). It will be delivered on behalf of the Odysseus Network as an association having a legal personality.
